

Burglars who targeted CP shops plied in cabs

BUSTED

Police say the three accused used to book app-based cabs to CP and for their return

NEW DELHI: Raju, Sanjeev and Nandu believe in a comfortable commute from work, even if it would mean spending a little more.

They used to book air-conditioned cabs on mobile app cab-balling services, and also book cabs back home, after burgling shops in Connaught Place.

The Raju Gang, named them after their leader, Raju Panseersavam, 37, is believed to have committed a series of burglaries reported from the Central Delhi's shopping arcade earlier this month. Other members have been identified as Sanjeev Kumar alias Raju, 45, and Nandu Rawat, 32.

A senior police officer said that the accused Nandu earlier worked as a driver with Ola and had not renewed his permit for more than a year, leading to his disassociation with the company.

An Ola spokesperson said, "This is an unfortunate incident, however, we would like to clarify that the accused was not on our platform."

An investigating officer said that the burglary was reported on May 4, when the gang broke into a meat shop, Khushi Chandra & Bros, during the early hours and fled with 60,000 in cash, some raw meat and documents.

Three days later, on May 7, the manager of US Polo Assn retail store in Connaught Place reported a break-in. He said that when he returned to the store in the morning, he found the main gate open and doors broken.

The manager reported 13,200 worth of clothes, 45 pairs of shoes, 45 shirts, at least 50 pairs of trousers and 40 T-shirts, along with 20 mobile phones and 100bells stolen from the shop, the officer said.

Police said, on May 12, a Raymond showroom was burgled and two pocket pins worth 6,500 and one camera worth 15,000 were stolen. A Beekoo store was targeted on May 14 and the cash, the digital video camera of the showroom's CCTV camera, a with their platform. The police, from analysis of CCTV footage, saw that the accused used to commute by a hatchback car.

The police arrested in on vehicles with similar registration number and started looking for the vehicle in CP area.

They were nabbed from a car during checking, police said. Police said when the trio was not using Nandu's car, they used to book cabs.

They targeted a meat shop, and two apparel stores among other shops in CP.

Names - Raju and Nandu, who were arrested in with an innova car in Rohini in 2017. Further probe revealed that Nandu was seen often driving a Tata Indica car as taxi, police said.

Following the route often taken by the suspects, a special picket was raised at Raju Chowk metro station, gate number 36. On Sunday, around 4 am, a Tata Indica was spotted near Janpath traffic signal. The police team intercepted the vehicle and Raju, Sanjeev and Nandu were arrested, the CP said.

Verma said when they were not using Nandu's car, the gang booked app-based cabs to reach the crime spots and then parked these cabs to flee.

NEW DELHI: Swahartha Nehru University has begun the admission process for its school of engineering for the monsoon semester in July.

According to JNU statement on Monday, JNU is accepting students in two different programmes for engineering degrees: Computer Science Engineering and Electronics and Communication.

The first three years of the course would be BTech courses, then in the seventh semester there will be some overlapping between BTech and M.Tech or MS courses.

The last three semesters will be purely M.Tech or MS courses, as per the specialisation the student would choose to do.

Agarwal clarified that in all likelihood that in the first batch only Computer Science engineering VLSI would be available.

Those opting for MS, can specialise in Roman Studies, Environmental Science, Computational Finance, or Management & Entrepreneurship.
